Groundwater District Now Has Website

The Fayette County Groundwater Conservation District announced that their new website is now up and running. The website contains complete copies of the District's rules and management plan, water conservation and other educational material, forms, maps, and much more, all available for viewing online or downloading. The new website can be accessed at www.fayettecountygroundwater.com. Check back often, as the site will be continuously updated. Future plans include the ability to register your well online.

The District provides a quarterly newsletter and a weekly e-mail bulletin of water-related news stories of local interest. Both are available free upon request. Also available at the District office are a wide variety of free brochures and information sheets. Simply contact the District office at (979) 968-3135 or stop by the office in the Fayette County Agricultural Building at 254 North Jefferson, Room 600, in La Grange.
